

WRITING:

Topic: In your opinion what is the best social networking site? Explain why.

I am not a person that uses too many social networking sites or applications, although there is one on which I have keen interest on and I use it quite often, Discord. This social media is not like the vast majority. It is basically a community based environment where you have a lot of servers, each one organized in channels. In those servers you can talk to people from around the world about all kinds of topics. It is specially helpful for educational purposes as you can arrange meetings and have them going on with webcams and voice-chats for any kind of business related matter, or you could just chat with other people for fun and have a great time.

I use Discord on a daily basis and it has really proved useful so far. On the other social medias you often have people just show off their achievements and some news but that is really about it. I am not against those social medias but I just find them to be the mainstream and they do not really catch my attention.
